Description

Provide a short description of the event and its activities.

The World Capital of Time Policies 2023 event is a project that will last all year long, with actions from the Municipality of Bolzano to raise awareness and promote time politics and the right to time. In particular, during the week from the 09th to the 13th of May (“Time Week 2023”), the Municipality of Bolzano organised several conferences, workshops and activities related to the topic of time policies in Europe.

The various events of the so-called “Time Week 2023” took place in different areas of the city of Bolzano: in EURAC Research conference hall, Chamber of commerce conference hall, Free University of Bozen-Bolzano (Room C04.6), Waaghaus conference hall and other spots in the city.

The morning of the 10th May, a city tour was organised to discover the city and the same day a dinner with the members of the project was booked. The aim of the above-mentioned side activities is to give the chance to the participants to know each other and create significant bonds for the future events and possible collaborations between municipalities, regions and other entities.

The conferences held on the 10th, 11th and 12th covered a variety of topics:

- Time policies: what are they? How have they been developed over time? What will happen in the near future?

In the same session, some best practices regarding digitalisation have been presented from different municipalities (Bolzano, Bergamo, Lleida) and from the Generalitat de Catalunya

- Nighttime policies;
- Working times;

On the morning of the 11th, our collaboration project with the Free University of Bozen-Bolzano was presented to the network. The two graduating students, Eliza Zimmermann and Nicole Faiella Perdomo, presented their master thesis project on the Bolzano Time Bank. They highlighted the importance of time and how time is care. Afterwards, the students of the Project II course, also from the Master's programme in Eco-Social Design, organised a workshop to investigate the use of time. The workshop was an opportunity to discuss various issues related to the right to time and to solidify our relationships with the other Time4All project members.

Finally, the administrative coordinator of the project (Municipality of Bergamo) held a meeting to discuss the next steps of the project. With the collaboration of BTUI, which is the technical coordinator, they reiterated the financial and reporting aspects and then we brainstormed on the upcoming events of this year in Barcelona and we discussed the transfer of World Capital of Time Policies to Strasbourg that will take place next March.
